REPORT MISSING FPLIER FOUND IN JUNGLE DENIED

Pilot Art Williams Says Story Credited to A. Harred, Dutch Boundary Commissioner, That They Discovered Paul Redfern With Indian Tribe in Brazil-British Guiana Border District, Is Untrue; Williams's Party Found No Trace of U.S. Flier Missing Since 1927

Canadian Press

Georgetown, British Guiana, Feb. 20.—Art Williams, United States aviator seeking Paul Redfern in the Brazilian jungles, late to-day gave complete denial to stories originated by Alfred Harred that Redfern had been actually found living with an Indian tribe in the Tumac Humac mountains.

HAUPTMANN'S HOPE BLASTED

Attorney Leibowitz Believes Him Guilty of Part in Lindbergh Murder, Withdraws

Associated Press

Trenton, N.J., Feb. 20.—A dramatic announcement by Attorney Samuel S. Leibowitz, strongly indicating he believes Bruno Richard Hauptmann is guilty in part of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, appeared to-day to have virtually blasted the convicted man's hopes of escaping death in the electric chair.

Hauptmann, Leibowitz said, "understands very clearly that his last card has been played and he has lost."

Hauptmann's date of execution was set by Justice T. W. Trenchard yesterday for the week of March 30.

The New York Attorney who consented to aid Hauptmann in the man convicted of the kidnapping of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's first-born son would "tell the whole truth, without fear from the law" yesterday evening.

MANY QUESTIONS

In the eight days that Leibowitz had investigated the case, he had subjected Hauptmann to several periods of questioning so intensive that at least once the convicted man broke into tears.

Although Hauptmann steadfastly refused to confess any part in the crime, Leibowitz in severing his connection with the case, asserted:

"His only salvation as matters stand now lies in his making a clean breast of whatever guilty part he may have had in the crime.

Franco-Soviet Pact Menace, Says Japan

Mutual Assistance Agreement Is Threat to Peace in Orient, Declare Tokio Spokesmen

Canadian Press From Havas
Tokio, Feb. 20.—Japan regards the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance pact as a menace to peace in the Far East, semi-official Foreign Office spokesmen indicated today.

Although France has assured the Japanese Government that the Franco-Soviet military pact is limited to European countries, it was claimed the ratification debate in Paris coincided with a new Soviet propaganda campaign against the Japanese government.

"We believe that in guaranteeing Soviet security in Europe, France is indirectly encouraging the Soviet to disturb peace of the Far East," the spokesman said.

PENSIONS AT SIXTY DEBATED

Heaps Resolution, "Talked Out" in Commons, Expected to Come Up Again

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Freight rates and pensions for the aged claimed the attention of the House of Commons today as private members took advantage of their limited opportunities to get their ideas before the House.

Yesterday afternoon the members discussed a proposal to provide pensions for all persons over the age of sixty, advanced by A. A. Heaps, C.C.F. Winnipeg North, and today had before them a resolution from E. E. Perley, Conservative, Qu'Appelle, Sask., urging lower domestic railway freight rates on grain and grain products in the prairie provinces and a bill proposed by Thomas Reid, Liberal, New Westminster, to reduce rates on grain from the prairies to British Columbia.

The Heaps resolution was "talked out" yesterday afternoon and may come up again this evening if Mr. Reid's bill is disposed of quickly. Mr. Heaps referred to the old age pension scheme as one of the most beneficial acts ever passed by Parliament. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR JUDGE HELD

Edmonton, Feb. 20.—Funeral service was held here today for the late Mr. Justice J. R. Boyle. Hon. W. L. Walsh, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta, Prichard Aberhart and many members of the Legislative Assembly attended.

Mr. Justice Boyle died in Ottawa last Saturday.

At the same time, he said, the Department of Justice "was checking up on me almost every day" to find where the guns were being sold.

London, Feb. 20 (Canadian Press from Havas)—Physicians attending Earl Beatty, retired Admiral of the Fleet, who has been ill for a week, reported today their patient had passed a comfortable night and was progressing as well as could be expected.

The Beatty resolution was "talked out" yesterday afternoon and may come up again this evening if Mr. Reid's bill is disposed of quickly.

Alberta's New Legislature In Session

A glimpse of the Assembly of the Foothills Province is given above. The Legislature will be called on to deal with the first Social Credit legislation drafted in Canada—or in any other country under parliamentary government, as far as the records show. Lieut.-Governor W. L. Walsh was reading the Speech from the Throne at opening of the session when the above picture was taken. The arrow indicates Premier Aberhart.

VISITED VILLAGES

"We made a new contact with ten new Indian villages and collected a great deal of information, and the most that was established is that the fern did not land in that area.

"Unfortunately, however, my Djukos learned that tribes farther inland were at war and refused to go farther.

"If I had found Redfern's plane it would have been a simple matter to take off the identification plate as evidence. Most of the evidence I have is in photographs."

SENT TO FATHER

These photographs, Williams indicated, he had sent to Paul Redfern's father in Carolina.

"Harred's story of Redfern being married to an Indian woman and having a son is merely rumor circulating among the Indians and Djukos at the boundary commission, but has never been proved to have basis of fact," he said.

"I deprecate stories by publicity hunters who raise false hopes regarding

ITALIANS SAY TROOPS GAIN

Army in North Ethiopia Advancing, Says Badoglio

Associated Press

Rome, Feb. 20.—Marshal Badoglio, commander of the Italian forces in Ethiopia, reported today:

"The First Army Corps has renewed its advance southward. The air corps gives no trace to enemy.

"There is nothing particular on the Somaliland front."

By CHRISTIAN OZASINI
Havas News Agency Correspondent

Addis Ababa, Feb. 20.—Ethiopian forces in the mountains west of Makale are standing their ground in a sharp engagement with Italian forces seeking to oust them from the strategic northern sector, reports reaching here said today.

The forces of Ras Seymour and Ras Kassa, who are continuing ceaseless guerrilla attacks in the Tembien Mountains, have not suffered many casualties in the engagement. The Italians were reported to have lost a considerable number in the fighting.

The inquiry was conducted a year ago and the report had been kept secret.

Whitehall is plainly worried over the leakage.

The document appeared yesterday in the Rome paper Gloriante d'Italia in full. And authorities admit they have not found out how it all happened.

Inquiries around the Foreign Office to-day met blank response.

"There is no official inquiry," authorities declared, but there was no denial steps were being taken to get to the bottom of the mystery—although what steps and in what places remained unrevealed.

The document, it is stated, was not furnished to the Italian government.

ETHIOPIAN INTERESTS

It was a secret report of an inter-departmental committee appointed in January, 1935, to inquire into British interests in Ethiopia. Sir John Maffey, Permanent Undersecretary of State for the Colonies, was chairman, and the committee was composed of representatives of the Foreign Office, the War Office, the Admiralty, the Air Ministry and the Dominions Office.

L. K. Rhinelander Called By Death

Member of Socially Prominent New York Family Succumbs to Pneumonia

Associated Press

New York, Feb. 20.—Leonard Kip Rhinelander, member of a socially prominent family involved in a sensational divorce case in 1929, died today of pneumonia at Long Beach, Long Island.

He was thirty-six years old.

In 1929 Rhinelander was granted a divorce decree in Las Vegas, Nev., from Alice Jones, who, testimony showed was the daughter of a negro cab driver.

Society was startled by their marriage on October 14, 1924. Rhinelander, who had come into a fortune, was then twenty-two and his bride twenty-three.

Rhinelander had been ill only a few days, and his condition was not considered serious until yesterday. He died at the home of his father, Philip Rhinelander, descendant of one of the oldest families in the state.

He had been working in the office of the Rhinelander estate, which controls large real estate holdings in New York and on Long Island.

is of an Italian conquest of Ethiopia is remote.

British officials declared to-day the report proved that in her policy towards the war Britain is not acting on any material motives. The committee's inquiry was specifically limited to British interests in Ethiopia and bore no relation to the question of whether there should be acquiescence in what might involve a breach of the League covenant or the Kellogg Pact.

STORM IN HOUSE.

A first class storm threatened in the House of Commons. Hon. Winston Churchill, former Secretary of State for War, raised the matter just as the question period ended.

Earlier W. M. Adamson, Labor, had questioned the Prime Minister on another alleged leakage to a Sheffield newspaper and mentioned the Home publications.

As Mr. Churchill put his question, Speaker G. E. Fitzroy said "the question has been asked."

Mr. Churchill, amid considerable excitement, pressed the point that Mr. Adamson had not put a definite question on the Home report. He had only mentioned it, and besides, no answer had been given. The question was one of great urgency and interest, he contended.

"Do you rule this question is one of emergency?" shouted a Labor member to the Speaker.

"I have not ruled one way or another," replied the Speaker.

The subject was dropped, only to be raised again when the business for the coming week was discussed.

ON SANCTIONS

Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, former Labor Party leader, asked whether in view of Monday's scheduled debate on oil sanctions the Prime Minister would be prepared to table a white paper giving the actual text of the document published in Home.

Mr. Baldwin replied he had been very much engaged all morning and had not had an opportunity to consider the matter.

Mr. Lansbury pressed that unless the House was to be given a chance to change his story, it could not properly discuss foreign affairs.

The House wanted to know, he continued, whether the statements published in Home were accurate or not.

Mr. Baldwin: "I must consider the point, I cannot answer it now."

Geoffrey Mander, Liberal, asked if the Prime Minister would be prepared to make a statement tomorrow in view of what had come "out of Rome."

"I cannot answer that now," repeated Mr. Baldwin.

PRESS STATEMENTS

But Prime Minister Baldwin was closely questioned regarding a press statement outlining the government's defence plans. He denied leakages had occurred and said that articles referred to had been based merely on intelligent anticipation and a knowledge of the available facts. He said nothing in the articles which he would be unable to write himself if he had the position and intelligence of the ordinary journalists (laugh).

The government's defence plans would contain a co-ordinated programme in which the proper functions of the three services—air, army and navy—would be taken into account, declared the Prime Minister. But the long range programme would have to be flexible and the subject of continuous review as circumstances required.

The Prime Minister declined to specify the nature of the "co-ordinating" authority until the impending debate.

Questioned in regard to the rise in armament shares, Mr. Baldwin declared all air force contracts included a "costing" clause and similar steps would be taken to ensure excessive profits would not be made from army and naval contracts.

EMBARGO DEBATE

There was keen anticipation of the full dress debate on sanctions scheduled for Monday. The question of an oil embargo is expected to be discussed with greater frankness than hitherto and the government will be able to sound out the Commons' views on sanctions prior to the departure for Geneva of Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary.

Labor members are expected to challenge what they term the government's "dilatory and obstructive" policy regarding the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Mr. Eden announced today he will attend the meeting of the League of Nations Committee of Eighteen (sanctions committee) when it meets in March. The date had been tentatively set for March 9, but it is understood the British government would like it advanced to March 2.

less of the harm they may do. I am certain that Redfern, if he is still alive, is somewhere in that area. I do not believe anyone from outside has seen him. He cannot come out for the simple reason that he cannot move without food and the Indians cannot bring him out, because they do not know anywhere else but the immediate vicinity of their villages.

The Indians may be hostile, but I do not think they killed him. Indications are also that far from him plane being preserved as something to worship, it was broken up and parts are probably in the huts of medicine men," Pilot Williams said.

VANISHED IN 1927.

Redfern vanished on a flight from Brunswick, Georgia, to Rio de Janeiro in August, 1927.

Art Williams formerly was a United States army pilot. He has made Georgetown the base of his expeditions into the jungle.

HARRIS' STORY

The statement made by Art Williams was a denial of the finding of the long-sought Redfern as told in the Paramaribo newspaper Banner, and relayed by wireless to The Georgetown Daily Chronicle. The paper Harred, Dutch member of a British-Dutch-Brasilian boundary commission, was quoted as saying:

"Art Williams (United States pilot), two Indians and I took off in a plane February 6. After a couple of hours we landed on a tributary southwest of the main Amazon stream and started to trek across Tumac Humac mountains in a southerly direction, fully supplied with provisions for the journey as well as for Redfern's return."

"After several days we came to a village where all Indians were completely nude. We saw an airplane caught in the branches of a big tree. A few hours later we met Redfern. He was dressed in a ragged singlet and underpants.

"His hair and beard on his shoulders and chest, he looked like a man over forty, hobbling on rude crutches made of tree branches and lime."

"He found difficulty at first speaking English, but evidently he had been expecting to be found. Williams gave him a biscuit and some tinned meat."

"After Redfern, who had learned the language of the Indians, told them not to harm us, he told us he had been forced down by a leak in the gas tank, and had been forced to land in the tree, being unable to reach the river. His legs and arms were broken in the crash, but medicine men cured him. They had treated him well, refusing to touch the plane, believing it was a 'Great Spirit.'

"Paul said he was in as good health as could be expected. He had married an Indian woman and has a son who looks very much like him.

"When the Indians suspected we intended to take Paul away they threatened us with poisonous spears and arrows, and I gave him advice we withdrew, leaving him with provisions and clothes.

SAID INDIANS HOSTILE

"Redfern understood very clearly his last card had been played and he was lost," Leibowitz said.

Leibowitz and Fisher told Hauptmann, according to a reliable source, that there was no new evidence and Governor Harold G. Hoffman had told them he would not grant Hauptmann another reprieve.

"The scene in the deathhouse was worse than anything I have ever seen in any electrocution chamber," this source said. "Leibowitz and Fisher were deeply affected."

"Leibowitz did most of the questioning, and never raised his voice above a conversational tone. It had a hypnotic effect on the prisoner."

"There was no bulldozing, but Hauptmann frequently raised his voice."

POINTED OUT FLAWS

"Leibowitz did not request Hauptmann to change his story, but in pointing out the numerous flaws in Hauptmann's defence, he gave the prisoner every opportunity to tell the truth if he had not already done so."

Hauptmann said, "Dot handwriting is the chief immediate difficulty is Paul's crippled condition."

The story in the Paramaribo "Baner" said that when Redfern and his companion spoke with Redfern they were encircled by 500 savage Indians wielding poisoned spears and muttering strange words in an unfamiliar tongue, according to Harred.

The Indians worshipped their "White god, who dropped down from the sky," it was stated in the story.

Washington, Feb. 20. (Associated Press)—The State Department today called instructions to the United States Consul at Trinidad, British West Indies, to investigate the statement of Alfred Harred at Georgetown, British Guiana, that he had seen and talked to Paul Redfern, missing United States aviator.

Redfern, a professor at Benedict College here, was not available for comment.

LETTER QUOTED

Associated Press—Columbia, S.C., Feb. 20.—Mrs. A. J. Bedenbaugh, sister of Paul Redfern, long-missing aviator, said today Dr. Francis Harred, their father, had received a letter from one of the searchers recently saying the approximate place the aviator disappeared had been located.

The letter, from Art Williams, one of the fliers of the search party, related experiences of the jungle hunt for Redfern, who crashed in 1927, and gave details of information which led the party to believe his rescue was near at hand.

Redfern, a professor at Benedict College here, was not available for comment.

RECOVERY PARAMOUNT

Industrial recovery in the province was paramount, Mr. Brown added, and greater aids to industry, with a lowering of taxation rather than an increase, were essential.

The delegation numbered twenty-six and represented, through organizations, most of the important industries of the province.

Organizations with delegates attending were: Shipping Federations, B.C., Building and Construction Industries Engineers, Vancouver, General Contractors Association, B.C., Lumber and Shingle Manufacturers' Association, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, B.C. division; the Vancouver Board of Trade, the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Brown said at the outset,

"On the basis of a total industrial payroll of $96,000,000 and the hypothesis that 75 per cent of the employees earned less than $1,000, reported to be the wage limits for the scheme, they estimated the levy on employers would total $72,000 a year and on employees close to $1,000,000.

Taking into account possible exemptions the brief said it was doubtful that a one per cent levy on employers and two per cent on employees would raise sufficient funds to carry the scheme, the inference being that the levies would have to be increased.

"However, whether the levies are maintained at the level proposed or whether they are increased in order to make the plan workable, the fact remains that these levies constitute new taxation and it is submitted on behalf of industry in British Columbia that the present is not an opportune time for any branch of government to impose new taxation."

FUNDS WANTED BY PARK BOARD

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Feb. 20.—Before the Vancouver Parks Board undertakes further relief work in Stanley Park it wants to know when the $200 balance of the money earmarked from proceeds of the $1,500,000 baby bond sale will be forthcoming. R. Howe Holland, chairman of the board, told the civic finance committee yesterday.

The board also sought information as to when it will receive the $50,000, also earmarked in the baby bond sale, for improving the new park site which is to replace Strathcona Park, where the new City Hall is being erected.

During the discussion it was revealed the new park site, stated to have been promised by the Canadian Pacific Railway to replace Strathcona Park, has not yet been acquired by the city, and further, that the expense already contracted in connection with the erection of the new City Hall accounts for nearly all the baby bond funds raised thus far.

HEALTH SCHEME PROVES SUCCESS

Insurance System at Cardston, Alberta, Enters Its Fifth Year; in Four Years 3,000 Persons Received Medical Service

Canadian Press
Cardston, Alta., Feb. 22.—Sponsor of health insurance plans in other provinces can point to Cardston's four-year-old medical contract scheme for support in their arguments. Pleased doctors and satisfied patients prove the popularity of the project as it starts its fifth year.

Under the plan a person pays $25 in advance and in return that person or anyone of his family will receive medical care throughout the year without further cost. The contract provides medical care for from one to ten persons in a family. On an average five persons have been insured under each contract.

During the last four years 600 persons have signed contracts. Taking an average of five persons under each contract, 3,000 persons have obtained medical service at a minimum cost of $5 a year.

Advance payments which assured physicians a regular monthly salary from the contract committee has pleased the two doctors. Between January 1, 1936, and March 1 is the open period when anyone may join the contract, but after March 1 a person will have to wait until September 15 before another opportunity to join is presented.

BRITISH COLUMBIA SCHEME
Since health insurance will be a major topic at the coming session of the British Columbia Legislature, the above item is of unusual interest. The British Columbia plan, in return for payments of 2 per cent of salary by employees earning up to $1,800 a year and 1 per cent by employers, would provide essential medical services, limited hospital ward care, diagnostic aids and part cost of drugs for the beneficiaries and their families. The maximum payment by any one person would be $36 a year.

Montreal, Feb. 20.—About 150 students of McGill University have signed a petition "regretting" the university's decision to retire Dr. Stephen Leacock, well-known Canadian humorist and chairman of the department of political economy, it was learned today.

The petition has been sent to the secretary of the university to be presented to the board of governors.

Dr. Leacock has passed the age of sixty-five at which, under the statutes, he may be retired. He was sixty-six last December 30.

VIOLATIONS OF SUNDAY SEEN

Vancouver and Edmonton Listed as Worst Offenders By Alberta Alliance

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Feb. 20.—Infractions of the law respecting Sunday observance, particularly in Edmonton and Vancouver, were reported at the annual meeting of the Alberta branch of the Lord's Day Alliance, here yesterday.

Edmonton's violations of the Lord's Day Act were said to be in the way of Sunday dancing, while the coast city was characterized as the problem centre of western Canada in respect to Sunday entertainments.

A committee was appointed to draft a resolution embodying the views of the organization.

POLITICS ON SUNDAY

Exception was taken in the report of Rev. G. G. Webber, secretary to Sunday political propaganda, both the Alberta provincial and Dominion elections being referred to as cases in point.

"Political rallies held on Sundays to promote the interests of a political party, whether held in a building used otherwise for religious purposes or elsewhere, do not generate the atmosphere that induces clear thinking or promotes the spirit of goodwill among men," declared Mr. Webber.

In answer to questions placed on the order paper by Rev. E. G. Hansell, Social Credit member for Macleod, Alta., Finance Minister Dunne furnished the figure yesterday afternoon. He also stated the debt of the Dominion at the end of last month was $2,095,124,262.

"How much of this is original principal and how much is interest?" Mr. Hansell asked concerning the present debt.

"Borrowings are not allocated to particular purposes under the consolidated fund system," the minister replied.

Nurses were on twenty-four-hour duty at John Neill's bedside to make sure the drops of a modification of Dakin's solution, fell through a tube suspended above the boy's head and struck a gauze-covered area the size of an egg where the skull had been chipped away.

John was found unconscious in a street December 11, apparently the victim of a hit-and-run motorist. On January 29, mastoiditis developed. Bone was removed above his left ear and the brain exposed, relieving pressure on it.

Superintendent William Jacobs said his condition was still critical, but that he had improved daily.

If the treatment were stopped infection probably would ensue, followed by meningitis and death.

Committee Will Report to House of Commons on Proportional Representation Plan

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—A special committee of the House of Commons will be formed soon to study proportional representation, the alternative vote in single-member constituencies, compulsory registration of voters and compulsory voting.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, has given notice he will move for appointment of such a committee to study the Dominion Elections Act and the Dominion Franchise Act and suggest amendment to those two statutes.

The minister's resolution mentions specifically the committee will study proportional representation and the alternative vote, and report on them to the House of Commons.

Edward VIII Sees Empire Exhibits at Show in London

Associated Press

London, Feb. 20.—The slight, fair-haired Edward VIII completed the first month of his reign to-day with public evidence that he has become Britain's "informal monarch."

The new King-Emperor, whose rule began the instant his father, George V, died before midnight, January 20, in keeping with the tradition that "the King never dies," has already settled down to his tasks with characteristic thoroughness.

Just as he toured the empire as Prince of Wales, making scores of informal trips as "Britain's Ambassador of Business," so has he demonstrated that twentieth century informality, rather than stiff regard for precedent, will govern his reign.

This is irrepressible informality, which made Edward the much-loved Prince of Wales in Britain's history.

He again disclosed at his first public function since his accession a visit yesterday to the British Industries Fair at Olympia.

The King insisted on carrying out his long-scheduled visit, in order to lend his personal support to the fair, despite the court mourning for his father.

He toured the stands in record time, often out-distancing his police escort, in sharp contrast to the stately progress King George and Queen Mary always made at previous fairs.

Officials, evidently surprised by His Majesty's keenness, could not help but laugh when the monarch paused before a sock display, pulled up his trousers and showed the hose salesman the kind of socks a king was wearing.

More chuckles arose when he stopped at a stand showing dress shirts made of paper and asked the paper-shirt maker if his ware "washed well."

Edmonton's violations of the Lord's Day Act were said to be in the way of Sunday dancing, while the coast city was characterized as the problem centre of western Canada in respect to Sunday entertainments.

A committee was appointed to draft a resolution embodying the views of the organization.

POLITICS ON SUNDAY

Exception was taken in the report of Rev. G. G. Webber, secretary to Sunday political propaganda, both the Alberta provincial and Dominion elections being referred to as cases in point.

"Political rallies held on Sundays to promote the interests of a political party, whether held in a building used otherwise for religious purposes or elsewhere, do not generate the atmosphere that induces clear thinking or promotes the spirit of goodwill among men," declared Mr. Webber.

In answer to questions placed on the order paper by Rev. E. G. Hansell, Social Credit member for Macleod, Alta., Finance Minister Dunne furnished the figure yesterday afternoon. He also stated the debt of the Dominion at the end of last month was $2,095,124,262.

"How much of this is original principal and how much is interest?" Mr. Hansell asked concerning the present debt.

"Borrowings are not allocated to particular purposes under the consolidated fund system," the minister replied.

Nurses were on twenty-four-hour duty at John Neill's bedside to make sure the drops of a modification of Dakin's solution, fell through a tube suspended above the boy's head and struck a gauze-covered area the size of an egg where the skull had been chipped away.

John was found unconscious in a street December 11, apparently the victim of a hit-and-run motorist. On January 29, mastoiditis developed. Bone was removed above his left ear and the brain exposed, relieving pressure on it.

Superintendent William Jacobs said his condition was still critical, but that he had improved daily.

If the treatment were stopped infection probably would ensue, followed by meningitis and death.

London, Ont., Feb. 20.—An avalanche of bricks and twisted metal crushed out the lives of five firemen, yesterday as they battled a roaring fire which destroyed the Odd Fellows' Lodge building, eighty-seven-year-old landmark in downtown Columbus.

Voices In Talkies Cleared of Squeaks

New Use of Ultra-violet Light Will Enable Some Stars Now Barred to Act in Movies

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Editor

New York, Feb. 20.—A new use of ultra-violet light in sound recording to take the squeaks out of movie stars' voices was announced yesterday by the Society of Motion Picture Engineers in annual convention here.

This new miracle of photography expected to permit some stars now handicapped to enter the talkies, is done with the high blues of ultra-violet, that is the rays just on the verge of visibility—or technically the waves of 3,400 to 3,500 angstrom units length.

The discovery does not change any standard apparatus, except to insert a small light filter in front of a tiny slit of light falling on the edge of the recording film.

It is this edge which carries the "sound track."

A close look at an ordinary sound track shows the edges of the peaks are fuzzy, with little black dots, like balloons sailing near the peaks. The fuzz and the balloons are all false, due to misprinting by the beam of white light.

These misprints cause the squeaks and hisses in actors' voices. The misprints completely disappear when the sound track is printed by the pure blue ultra-violet rays.

WOODSWORTH SPEAKS

J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, said there was nothing compulsory about the Heaps plan. It was planned to pension a man at sixty if he desired.

Replies to the Finance Minister.

Mr. Woodsworth said the $50 was merely a suggested figure. It was planned to give men a decent retiring allowance, but no set amount was mentioned.

"Would women be pensioned as well as men?" asked Ross Macdonald, Liberal, Brantford, Ont.

"Yes," replied Mr. Woodsworth.

Amendment of the Old Age Pension Act, reducing the age limit to sixty, would be a step in the right direction, the C.C.F. leader told Ross Macdonald.

Old age pensions, however, were purely voluntary, and he would like to see retiring pensions on a much higher plane than that.

He would like to see them on the same plane as judges' retiring allowances.

AN ARMING WORLD

IN SOME QUARTERS IT IS CONTENTED that because there is so much talk of another European conflagration and that nations are disclosing so much public information of their programmes and of armaments that prospects of an outbreak are getting more remote from day to day. But where there is so much combustion there always is an element of great danger to peace. It will be remembered that the assassination of an Austrian archduke at Sarajevo was an incident which set most of the nations of the world at one another's throats.

An Associated Press staff writer has been tracing the activities of some of the principal nations of Europe in regard to armaments, and concludes that all of the governments are dominated by the belief that in preparation for war lies the best assurance of peace. He begins with Great Britain—the only European nation which conscientiously has tried to give the lead to the world in the matter of disarmament—and notes that there is before the British Parliament a programme for "repairing the gaps" in defences, which is expected to involve the expenditure of about $1,500,000,000, or not far short of half the national debt in the year before the war.

A report from London last Saturday intimated that Premier Baldwin—who some time ago announced to the world that Britain had to regard her frontier as the Rhine—is likely to encounter considerable hostility among the members of his own party, apart from spirited objection from the opposition minority, to his plans of large expenditures. On the other hand, Sir Austen Chamberlain attacked the Premier for his ambiguity and relucrability on the subject of national defence and international policy. Whatever may be behind this controversy, however, it must be admitted that against the background of embattled Europe, Britain occupies a very vulnerable position and, in the light of what her neighbors on the other side of the North Sea are doing, she can not ignore the possibilities of what a new flare-up might mean for her.

France, of course, is suspicious of Germany. It has been suggested that Chancellor Hitler has in mind the reoccupation of the demilitarized zone of the Rhineland. This particular territory stretches from the Dutch border to the north to the Swiss border in the south, as far east as Frankfurt-am-Main and Koeln in the west, drawing up short of the Duchy of Luxembourg. Colonel Bertrand Pujo was appointed on Saturday to look after France's aerial interests, with a special regard for the Rhine country. He will take command next month. France's war budget also is beyond all peace-time records. Still naturally remembering what she suffered in the Great War, Belgium is revising her plans for military co-operation with France in the event of an invasion from across the Rhine and is spending large sums for armaments. As is well known, Germany is arming in the air, on land and sea. Most of her revenue is being devoted to war preparation, so much so that peace-time services are suffering severely.

France does not sleep soundly o' nights because of Germany and Japan. So she has nearly doubled her military budget, from about $1,600,000,000 to nearly $3,000,000,000. Italy's limited financial resources are heavily strained by the war in Ethiopia and Premier Mussolini's military programme is very costly. Even Spain, despite her turbulent domestic political situation, has plans for getting into the general European military procession. Japan is devoting two-thirds of her budget to meet the cost of her operations in northern China and has borrowed to the very verge of national bankruptcy for future martial contingencies. The United States has increased her appropriations for military and naval services until they now exceed a billion dollars.

There are forces which are attempting to halt this tremendous expenditure of public money on war preparation with its corollary of racial antagonism throughout the world. Obviously, if this competition continues much longer, there is bound to be either another great international conflagration or a series of domestic upheavals which will effect a more startling transformation of the human family than that which was caused by the Great War.

THEN WHAT IS IT?

PEAKING BEFORE THE ACTIVE CLUB International in Vancouver the other day, Brigadier-General Victor Odium said "at present there is no real war between Italy and Ethiopia." His contention was that it had resolved itself into "a question of a public works project on the part of the Italians versus a publicity campaign on the part of the Ethiopians."

This distinguished Canadian soldier, speaking of course, at long range, adds: "Italy will not be able to reach her objective within the six months' period which she first hoped for, but over a three or four-year period she is bound to succeed unless world opinion forces her to withdraw. For this reason Ethiopia is banking heavily on the forces of propaganda and is using them as a military factor. The man handling Abyssinian publicity is the former publicity agent of Al Smith."

This reference to Al Smith's former publicity agent somewhat intrigues us. "Al" has been described by President Roosevelt as the "Happy Warrior," but how comes it that the gentleman in charge of Ethiopia's front-page has not been able to put the East-Side smile on the faces of the Lion of Judah's gallant warriors?

To come back to Brigadier-General Odium's suggestion that "there is no real war between Italy and Ethiopia," 175 Italian airplanes the other day dropped many tons of explosives on Abyssinian warriors who tried to defy the messages of death from the air, and Rome reports the killing and wounding of 20,000 Ethiopian warriors. Rome also announces that the Italian forces in Ethiopia total 350,000 men, and they are under the command of Marshal Badoglio, Italy's chief of staff and her greatest soldier. If this is not war, what is it? A Sunday school picnic?

Incidentally, there is more propaganda coming out of Rome than there is out of Ethiopia, and if our friend, General Odium, has any doubt about it all he needs to do is to get in touch with the British authorities in Egypt, or, better still, listen to the Italian radio station broadcasts and read the Fascist-controlled Italian press.

HITLERISM LATEST

CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S NEW PICTURE is said to be funny, but it can not be as mirth-provoking as the banning of its appearance in Germany by the Nazi government. It is reported that Minister of Propaganda Goebbels objects to the film because Chaplin, mainly owing to his tooth-brush moustache, bears some resemblance to Hitler, and that this circumstance combined with the actor's comic antics might have an oblique reflection upon the little ruler of Nazidom. In one part of the play also Chaplin becomes a radical, and Propagandist Goebbels sees in this something which might have a tendency to undermine the confidence of solemn German motion picture patrons in the infallibility of Nazi philosophy and its fantastic chief apostle.

Hence, we may assume that Germans must not be permitted to see, or read of, anybody who wears a tooth-brush moustache becoming a radical, even in satire. The question naturally arises, would Herr Goebbels be more complaisant if Charlie had worn a beard, an imperial, a goatee, side-burns, or a moustache with turned-up ends like Hohenzollern? Is the moustache, rather than the swastika, the hallmark of real, unadulterated Nazism? Is it the distinguishing sign between the Aryans and the non-Aryans?

Chaplin was famous for his funny little lip embroidery long before Hitler was heard of. In fact, there is good reason for the suspicion that Hitler, in his salad days when he was a frequenter of Munich beer halls, was a Chaplin imitator in this respect. He even may have had great pride in the resemblance, and he may have practiced other Chaplinesque mannerisms? Perhaps, he, too, cherished an ambition to be a funny motion picture comedian, and it must be admitted that there have been times since the Krupps and Thyssens projected him into the limelight of German politics when he has shown no little talent in that direction.

Nor is Hitler the only comedian in Germany's weird present-day drama? Goebbels himself is funny enough, and if he only would add the priceless touch of a tooth-brush moustache, he might even out-Hitler Hitler or out-Chaplin Chaplin. If Germany had a sense of humor she would have "laughed her rulers out of office" long ago, but this saving grace of humanity seems to be lacking in the entire Germanic realm. It would not be at all surprising to hear that when the Reich makes its next attempt to recover its place in the sun, one of its chief objectives will be to impose upon the rest of mankind the obligation to wear a tooth-brush moustache as a symbol of subordination, while womankind will have to be content with a tattooed swastika.

Dictators never have a sense of humor; otherwise, they would not be dictators. Nor do they permit the free expression of humor in the people to whom they dictate. It is unsafe to laugh too much in either Germany or Italy, or you might be regarded as laughing at either Hitler or Mussolini. If you were an outsider you probably would be, for there is nothing funnier to people outside the boundaries of these two countries than motion pictures depicting the strutting and posturing of their leaders, and this does not except even the gyrations of Charlie Chaplin.

Germany is the prize enigma of the generation. She is supposed to be highly literate. At one time she was the model of the world in educational progress. Yet for half a century she has permitted herself to be ruled at times by the most stupid of autocracies; she has allowed her rulers to adopt policies which have blackened her reputation for honesty and common decency all over the world. She permits persecution of the Jews; so hideous that it catalogues her in the roster of backward, medieval countries, solemnly burns masterpieces of literary or musical composition because they were the products of Jewish geniuses, and exiles the greatest scientists of the day for similar reason. No people who could afford to laugh at themselves could be guilty of such a record, and it seems to be quite in harmony with present German mentality that it solemnly acquiesces in the banning of a Chaplin comedy because its chief performer may be considered to resemble—physically—the cheap little marionette who dances on the Nazi throne.

OUR "MALODOROUS GANGDOM"

The Toronto Globe

The revelations now made (of electoral methods in Montreal at the last provincial election) are new to the extent that they are additional. How long Montreale politics has been like this it is difficult to say, but it is evident that a condition exists which makes it comparable with some of those in the United States. The astonishing thing is its continuance. Even Chicago and New York cleaned up much of their malodorous gangdom. It can be done, and there are enough honest people in Montreal to drive out disreputable election tactics if they decide to do so.

A GREAT CRUSADE

The Halifax Herald

The report of the Director of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund, just issued, is a document which has received much praise in the British press. It concludes with the words: "Cancer has ceased to be an unaccountable mystery—and we need no longer fear that its solution surpasses the wit of man." . . . As regards mortality from cancer, it is shown in the report that the menace is not increasing at an alarming rate in civilized communities. It is further shown that the disease is found, when looked for, among savages, uncivilized peoples in wild as well as domesticated animals, and in carnivorous as well as herbivorous animals. There is some ground for hope that Canadian investigators are on the road to make important discoveries respecting the origin and treatment of this malady.

Loose Ends

The Sun foresees a grisly prospect—Art for Art's sake—freaks from the South Seas—and the Scots come back again.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

FUTURE RACE

THE VANCOUVER SUN, which likes to ponder deeper problems of this sort, has lately been investigating the character of the future Canadian race. It argues that the character of the race will be determined by the women's taste in husbands. That is, if the women choose red-haired husbands, we shall have a red-headed race, because the offspring of this choice will have red hair on the average. If the style in husbands is tall, we shall have a tall race. If short, short; if ugly, ugly; if brainy, brainy; and so on. That, says the erudite Sun, is why the Greeks were handsome—the Greek girls wouldn't marry an ugly man. They wanted their husbands modeled after the Greek gods. In the same way, the red-haired strain was eliminated from the Egyptian race altogether, because no girl would marry a red-headed man.

You see, therefore, that the taste of Canadian girls of 1936 in male character is mighty important. It will determine the whole character of the Canadian people in 1966. And what is their taste? The Sun says that their taste runs to brains rather than beauty. This conclusion is based on a questionnaire circulated among the students of the University of Toronto.

The girls of the University of Toronto said they preferred brains to beauty. From that the Sun leaps to the conclusion that the Canadian race is going brainier and brainier, but doesn't add that is going to grow at the same time uglier and uglier.

This logic, however, leaves out one essential fact. Only a small fraction of one per cent of the girls of Canada go to the University of Toronto or any other university. So far as I can discover, the taste of the great majority—modeled on Clark Gable and Bing Crosby, like the taste of girls all over America—is The Sun's theory is correct, and I fear it is.

It is going to be a race of Gables and Crobys, handsome, gay men and sickly crooners. Our women, like the ancient Greek girls, want their husbands modeled on the gods, and the gods have moved from Olympus to Hollywood. Likewise, the goddesses, after whom men will model their choice of wives, as that while the future will be a cross between Gable and Crosby, the future mother of America is going to look like Dietrich, with a dash of Garbo and perhaps a tear from Miss West. There's a good time coming, boys, but unfortunately we shall not live to see it. We shall have to be satisfied with brains.

"I wouldn't like to particularize too much, but really, you know, you have some weird people walking about, attracting no more attention than a naked savage attracts down in the South Seas. FREAKS

YET THERE ARE many sights on the streets of Victoria which we find most extraordinary. At a recent gathering I was talking to a man who has just come here to live from a remote island in the South Seas. I asked him how he liked being back in civilization again and his reply rather surprised me.

"When you get down to it," he said, "there is very little difference between civilization and no civilization. I mean, there are just as many strange people to be seen on the streets of Victoria as on one of those islands in the South Seas. You are used to them, but to an outsider like me the streets are full of freaks, more curious than the natives where I come from. The only difference is that they wear pants, and a freak is a freak in pants or without, you know."

NEW SPENCER'S SHOE SECTION

Pleasantly Laid Out and Decorated Store Opened on Government Street

To take care of an increase in business, a new and attractively decorated shoe department has been opened by David Spencer Limited on Government Street, adding yet another section to the steadily growing area of the store.

The new department, which will handle the higher grade of men's shoes, including well-known English lines such as the Albion, is located between the boys' wear department and the entrance of the Chamber of Commerce, in the site formerly occupied by A. P. Blyth, optometrist.

Mahogany is used throughout for the extensive shelf accommodation and other wood work, and the remainder of the decorations blend with the color of the wood, with linoleum flooring in a modern design of tan and maroon, and carpets in a larger pattern of similar design and color.

LARGE SHELF AREA

The shelf area is considerable, despite the relatively small size of the department, owing to careful planning. The storage space at the rear of the store has been arranged on a modern plan, with shelves in a series of bays, making for easy access and a full utilization of floor space.

Indirect lighting by mahogany-colored standard lamps on top of the large glass display cases down the middle of the store adds to the general effectiveness of the decorations.

The new department is connected with the boys' wear section by large archways, giving access to the bargain basement and the rest of the building.

The department is under the charge of P. A. Hawkes, who has been connected with the shoe department for twenty-seven years. The staff is made up of men who know the shoe business thoroughly.

Women's shoes remain on the first floor of the main building, and cheaper grades of men's and women's footwear are to be found in the bargain highway in the basement.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Reorganization of the Export-Import Bank with Warren Lee Pierson as president, succeeding George N. Peek, who recently resigned was announced yesterday at the State Department.

Mr. Pierson, who has been general counsel of the bank since its organization, was appointed president after the post had been declined by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation.

SKIN RED AND TENDER WITH ECZEMA

Complete Relief With Cuticura Soap and Ointment

The records abound with grateful letters of praise like the following: "I am full and address are printed to show that Cuticura letters are genuine beyond question. 'Cuticura' in little water, blisters started on my daughter's hands and later developed into sore eruptions causing much itching and burning. Her skin was red and tender, and she couldn't sleep. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment—then I purchased some. After using a cake of Cuticura Soap and 2 tins of the Ointment, she was fully relieved." (Signed) Mrs. Moses Cottreau, Wedgeport, N.S.

February tentative arrangements are now being made for a conference between the health committee of the City Council and the Victoria Medical Society.

The city is now paying $500 a month to the medical men, but after consideration of the January and February costs a flat rate will be established, based on the value and nature of work done during these two months.

It is expected the meeting will be held early in March, and following it, the health committee will make a recommendation to the council for the flat rate.

To take care of an increase in business, a new and attractively decorated shoe department has been opened by David Spencer Limited on Government Street, adding yet another section to the steadily growing area of the store.

The new department, which will handle the higher grade of men's shoes, including well-known English lines such as the Albion, is located between the boys' wear department and the entrance of the Chamber of Commerce, in the site formerly occupied by A. P. Blyth, optometrist.

Mahogany is used throughout for the extensive shelf accommodation and other wood work, and the remainder of the decorations blend with the color of the wood, with linoleum flooring in a modern design of tan and maroon, and carpets in a larger pattern of similar design and color.

LARGE SHELF AREA

The shelf area is considerable, despite the relatively small size of the department, owing to careful planning. The storage space at the rear of the store has been arranged on a modern plan, with shelves in a series of bays, making for easy access and a full utilization of floor space.

Most of the few objections to the measure have been offered by those who are opposed to any form of medical treatment, the speaker said.

She traced the history of health insurance in the province, recalling the 1920 Royal Commission under E. S. H. Wynne and the Davie commission of 1929.

The speaker analyzed the difference between health insurance and workers' compensation, pointing out that the latter was only to protect a man from injury while he was employed.

The department is under the charge of P. A. Hawkes, who has been connected with the shoe department for twenty-seven years. The staff is made up of men who know the shoe business thoroughly.

Women's shoes remain on the first floor of the main building, and cheaper grades of men's and women's footwear are to be found in the bargain highway in the basement.

The new department is connected with the boys' wear section by large archways, giving access to the bargain basement and the rest of the building.

The January figures for each year are:

1932—Total 4,432, daily average 158
1933—Total 10,377, daily average 335
1934—Total 9,445, daily average 305
1935—Total 6,163, daily average 199
1936—Total 5,101, daily average 164½

Capt. F. A. Lindsay made good the deficit of $85.38 in last month's operations, the report sets out. Cash expenses for January were $213.70, cash receipts other than Col. Lindsay's, $85.38.

The yearly audit of the books by L. A. Grogan, chartered accountant, shows 1935 total cash receipts of $1,930.97, expenditure $2,307.75, net cash deficit $376.78. Chief items of expenditure for 1935 were: food, $1,383.11; non-voluntary staff, $749.45; kitchen utensils, $80.82; stationery and supplies, $51.10; restaurant meals during summer months inn was closed, $205.45.

Mr. Grogan pointed out that no financial value had been placed on donations of food, his statement covering only cash purchases.

Besides Col. Lindsay's financial assistance, special mention is made of $85 of meat from Commander Slingby, $104.80 of coffee from Capt. W. Hobart Molson, nearly $200 of milk from R. H. B. Ker, $300 of gas and electricity from the B.C. Electric, service from the B.C. Telephone, weekly supply of meat from Miss Ogilvie, regular service from the Economy Wet Wash Laundry, ice from the B. Wilson Company, dairy supplies from the Palm Royal and Northwestern dairies, fuel from the city council and wood merchants.

"The respects and appreciation of the board are tendered to the kind voluntary helpers, the women on week days, the men on Sundays," Capt. Gadsden said.

The parks committee of the City Council yesterday considered an estimate from the city engineer for asphalt Stevenson Memorial Park, at Spring Ridge, to make it suitable for a roller-skating rink and hard-surfaced tennis courts.

The estimate from the engineer was more than had been anticipated, however, and it was referred back for revision with the suggestion that a lighter asphalt base be employed.

The plan is to cover the park with asphalt and have concrete curbing. This would serve as a tennis court during the fall and then it was suggested it might be flooded for ice rink during the winter.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliott

"What were they, Mums?"
Violet answered: "Oh, how I laugh when I think how I cried about you!"

CHAPTER XII

Isabel, the manicurist at Miss Betty's Beauty Shoppe, bent solicitously over Katharine's hand. "Want them a little shorter, don't you?"

Katharine nodded. Scilly Moon was in the next booth, with its rose-colored curtains swinging between painted white posts, Katharine heard Sally's laughter as she gossiped with Miss Betty.

"Why have you got that string tied around your finger?" Katharine asked the little manicurist idly. Isabel, who had waved brown hair, plucked eyebrows and a confiding air, glanced up, dimpled and smiled.

"Bill put it there on my birthday," she confided. "Bill—Chance—you know him, Miss Strykurst. He drives the express truck. Big fellow with broad shoulders. I told him I'd keep it there till he put a sure enough ring on it. I say the crazies things," she finished with an innocent, upward sweep of her mascaraed lashes. "I'm just a nut."

"You are going to marry him then?" Katharine stated, rather than asked. Isabel had been doing her nails for years. Katharine felt almost an affection for the artless little creature.

"Well, yes, I guess so. We were playing with the ouija board last week and I asked ouija: 'When am I going to be married?' Well, will you believe it, Miss Strykurst, that thing ran around to October 4? I was just about knocked silly, October 4. Imagine that!"

Katharine smiled. From the booth Sally Moon's high laughter sounded again.

"She is a very popular girl, I hear," Isabel murmured with a shrug in Sally's direction. "The men just go running . . ."

"She is attractive," Katharine conceded, concealing her instinctive dislike with an effort.

"Well, but about Bill and myself, Isabel pursued, getting back to her favorite topic. "You know, when I told him about ouija he acted funny, kind of. Said he did not believe in monkeying with fate or something like that. Men are sort of queer. It's like they had no intuition or something. Now take me, I always want to know about the future. Why, there was a fortune teller up at Playland and she had me down to a T. Described my first beau and said I was going to get a letter and would you believe it . . ."

There was a good deal more of this, but Katharine did not hear it all. Sally Moon, a riot of scalloped waves and escaping sausages, emerged presently from the booth, in the crisp of yellow linens with fly-away scarf. She met Katharine's eyes and both girls bowed rather stiffly.

"See, that is a pretty outfit!" Isabel commented enviously as Sally fluttered out of the door to take her place at the wheel of her waiting car. "Bet that cost aplenty. That is what I always say. No wonder these girls have all the breaks, clothes and cars and all—tearing around like nobody's business. I don't mean you, of course, Miss Strykurst," she finished briskly, at a warning nod from her employer, who was putting the stopper on a mammoth bottle of liquid shampoo.

"Hear you took a tumble last week," Isabel went on after an interval, during which polish was applied deftly to the nails of Katharine's left hand. "Read it in the paper. Gosh, I was all upset, believe it or not. I said to myself, Miss Strykurst is the nicest one of the whole bunch in town. It will just be a shame if she is going to be badly hurt."

"It was nothing," Katharine said. "But that tall fellow who comes down from the riding club, he sure is one good-looking chap." Isabel chattered. "I said to Miss Betty just the other day, believe you me, if I had the money and the outfit I would be taking lessons from him

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It is unfair and unjust to expect a child to endure definitely abnormal ailments in the belief that eventually he will outgrow them. When the ailments are skin diseases — the child might suffer for years unless the mother makes it her business to discover the source of the child's misery and discomfort.

Mrs. F. T. has been advised to do nothing about her boy's persistent "hives" or what the mother considers to be hives. She writes: "My boy is five months old. He gets five feedings a day but is not thriving. He weighed over seven pounds at birth but now weighs only thirteen and one-half. I know this is not enough. SIEGE OF HIVES."

"He has had a long siege of hives, which people tell me to ignore. I am very careful about his feedings. I keep him clean. I am afraid to change formulas as we do not live near a doctor and I am very ignorant of the whole subject."

I hope you'll take advantage of the general information on formulas and feeding which is available through this department. You may have leaflets on formulas for sweet milk, evaporated, or lactic acid milk, and "Diet from Two to Nine Months" for a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope sent with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

The baby may have eczema, or he may have an infective skin disease in either of which cases you must have the advice and services of a doctor. It is useless to treat for a dietary skin ailment like eczema if the baby has impetigo, or the other way about. The possibility that this is hives is remote, as hives come and go, they do not persist for five months. Do take the baby to a doctor promptly and get on the road to a real cure.

CONCERT GIVES MUCH PLEASURE

Memorial Hall Filled Last Night For Varied Entertainment

The Memorial Hall was packed to the doors yesterday evening by an appreciative audience which evidently thoroughly enjoyed the delightful programme given under the auspices of the Columbia Women's Auxiliary, in aid of the funds of the Anglican Theological College.

The programme included two one-act plays, "Through Other Eyes" and "Sudden Death," skilfully presented by the Little Theatre Association, and recitations, sketches and dances by pupils of Miss Enid Cole, piano-forte solos by Miss Audrey Wood, and songs by Miss Cole herself.

Miss Cole's pupils, all of whom scored a hit, included Sylvia Welsh, aged three and a half, whose naive enjoyment of her recitations, "Visiting the Barber," "Naming Fussy" and "Green Apples," was shared by the audience, to judge by the laughter and applause which greeted the little comedienne. Equally enjoyed were the little girls who took part in "Modern School Maids," a musical sketch with Dorothy Smith in the role of the stern schoolma'am, and June Short, Gwyneth Phillips, Alice Roskelly and Eileen Chaster, as her flippant class of girls.

Elspeth Chater, in a quaint costume, recited "I'd Like to Be an Actress," and the old negro mammy number, "Honey, Please in Yo Own Backyard." Alice Roskelly recited "Her Excuse" and "Painting a Boat," the former particularly laughable, and Gwyneth Phillips gave "That's Golf?" and, as an encore, "Ships," all being warmly received. Miss Cole sang with much charm "Blue Eyes" and "Red Sails in the Sunset," accompanied by Miss Evelyn Barker. Ethel Gillis contributed a sprightly tapdance.

At the close Bishop-Coadjutor Sexton expressed the audience's thanks to the artists, and Lady Lake, W. A. Diocesan president, presented them with flowers.

PHYSICIANS TO STAND TRIAL

Associated Press

San Francisco, Feb. 20.—Municipal Judge Sylvain J. Lazarus ordered two physicians in Ann Cooper Hewitt's sterilization case held for trial on charges of conspiracy to commit mayhem at conclusion of a preliminary hearing here yesterday.

The necessity of the desire to bear children is something not idly to be interfered with," Judge Lazarus said as he informed the physicians, Drs. Tilton E. Tillman and Samuel G. Boyd that they must stand trial on the "felony charge in superior court."

"There is nothing in the record to show," Judge Lazarus added, "that this girl has ever been committed to an institution as an idiot, if that is what you mean, that fact was privately ascertained by her mother and the doctors."

"Her sterilization thus does not come within permission of California law."

Judge Lazarus set February 28 as time for issuing the formal holding order, thus granting attorneys for the two physicians time in which to carry out their announced intention of seeking habeas corpus writs. Judge Lazarus's decision followed conclusion of arguments by counsel for the physicians and testimony intended to support a police-signed complaint that the physicians and Miss Hewitt's mother, Mrs. Marion Cooper Hewitt, tricked her into submitting to a sterilization operation.

Miss Hewitt, twenty-one, daughter of the late Peter Cooper Hewitt, inventor, testified she did not know before the operation that "such things (the organs removed) existed." She said she was told by her mother, reported to be in New York, and the physicians that she was to be operated on for appendicitis.

Russell P. Tyler, attorney for Miss Hewitt in a $500,000 damage suit against her mother and the surgeons, testified Dr. Boyd first denied, but later reluctantly admitted, the operation had been performed.

HOW TO AVOID ILLNESS

When you begin to feel fagged out at the end of the day, look out. Illness is just around the corner waiting to lay you low. At times like this there's nothing like Wincarnis, the tonic tonic that won over 20,000 recommendations from medical men.

Wincarnis is a delicious wine, not a drug.

In each bottle there are all the nourishing elements of 2½ lbs. of grapes added to the strengthening elements of beef and guaranteed malt extracts.

These elements in Wincarnis will quickly restore lost energy. They will help you to sound sleep, vigorous awakenings and active, enjoyable days. Drink this delicious wine regularly three times each day, and soon years will drop from your shoulders.

To pick you up when you are out of sorts, to soothe your nerves, enrich your blood, or in cases of nervousness, insomnia, anæmia and debility, take Wincarnis. At all drugstores—Sales Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co. Ltd., Toronto.

Golfers Dine and Dance Amid Spring Blossoms

Dinner-dance at Empress Hotel Last Night Delightful High-spot in Golf Week

Associated Press

With table decorations of daffodils and spring blossoms answering the query "If winter comes can spring be far behind?" visitors from the prairies and other parts of the mainland cast memories of below zero weather to the limbo of forgotten things last night and gaily danced in the Empress ballroom.

FLOOR ACTS

The occasion was the dinner dance arranged as one of the red-letter events on the social calendar of the annual Empress winter golf tournament and over 200 guests danced and danced with evident pleasure. The announcement by W. F. Tickle, leader of the orchestra, "for the benefit of our Winnipeg friends we have just word that it is 40 below there," was greeted with cheers.

Special floor acts were arranged during the serving of dinner and between the dance numbers and evoked much applause. Doreen Wilson sang some of the choruses of the popular dance tunes, and later appeared in a charming song and dance number. Berna Waring contributed a gypsy tambourine number; B. Pennoch, as "The Lady in Black," scored an instant success; Wynne Shaw and Phyllis Addison did an attractive novelty tap dance, and the Bolero was performed by Thelma Stratford and Alex Webster.

Woman Doctor Dies Aged 111 Years

Boasted of Smoking Three Packets of Cigarettes a Day and Never Had a Day's Illness

Canadian Press
St. Louis, Feb. 20.—Dr. Marie Charlotte de Gobine Davenport, widely known as a health and physical education lecturer and said to have been 111 years old, died last night after an operation.

Until the illness which led to the operation, for a stomach obstruction, Dr. Davenport claimed she had never been sick a day, last June her doctor said her heart was weak and that she would have to give up smoking. She boasted that she could get away with three packets of cigarettes in a day.

NATIVE SON IS NAVY ARCHITECT

Professor T. M. Rowlands Was Designer of Scientific Ship Catalyst

A native son of Victoria, Professor T. M. Rowlands has gained fame in Seattle as a naval architect. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rowlands of Phoenix Place.

This evening Professor Rowlands will address members of the Puget Sound Yacht Club on the relation of their miniature craft to full size naval architecture.

Mr. Rowlands is a well-known naval architect of Seattle and assistant professor of general engineering at the University of Washington.

He was designer of the "Catalyst," University of Washington oceanographic boat and a Tacoma fireboat.

The "Catalyst" has been in Victoria several times. He recently demonstrated his interest in model yachts by publishing a scientific brochure on them.

The model yacht club, of comparatively recent origin, is affiliated with the Model Yacht Racing Association of America, which, in turn, is an affiliate of the International Model Yacht Racing Association.

It has twenty-nine members in good standing, mostly business or professional men, who design, build and sail their own model yachts. Their standard vessel is a sloop from six to seven feet in length, weighing from thirty-five to sixty-five pounds, with a mast from eight to eight and a half feet.

JUNIOR MUSICAL TO MEET FRIDAY

The Junior Musical Arts Society will have its next meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, Mrs. James Cameron, 1258 Fairchild Road, having loaned her home for the occasion. The programme will be devoted to the works of Handel, whose birthday will be celebrated next Sunday.

There will be an interesting lecture by Miss Gwen Harper, illustrated with a group of piano solos. Gilbert Margison will also be a guest artist, playing several violin solos.

The remainder of the programme will be contributed by the following members: Molly Charles, piano solo; Sheila Conway and Elsie Friend, vocal solo; Mrs. Botten, cello solo; and trio by Margaret Pringle, piano; John Pimm, violin, and Bert Botten, cello. The accompanist will be Margaret Pringle, Sheila Conway and Elsie Friend.

STRAWBERRY VALE PARTY

A very enjoyable evening was spent in the Strawberry Vale Community Hall on Friday, the hall being prettily decorated with flowers and pussy willows. Cafe's orchestra entertained about 175 guests to an old-time party dance in celebration of their fifth year of playing old-time dances. Supper was served by the ladies and a beautiful three-tiered birthday cake made by Mrs. Ligdgate centred the table. The B. J. Boys' orchestra played a number of selections, which were much enjoyed. Mr. Piercy gave a splendid recitation, which was well applauded. The next old-time dance will be held on Friday, February 21.

STOMACH TROUBLE AND CONSTIPATION GONE... NOW BEST OF HEALTH

"After suffering a long time from constipation and stomach trouble, I started Fruit-a-tives. Almost immediately my troubles ceased. Now I always feel in the best of health," states Mrs. A. Delamarre, Montreal, Que.

Evolved by a prominent Canadian doctor, Fruit-a-tives contain extracts of APPLES, ORANGES, FIGS, PRUNES and HERBS. Free of harsh purgatives this natural remedy brings not temporary, but lasting relief. It tends to strengthen all organs of elimination to normal action. Its tonic effects have helped bring amazing health results to tens of thousands.

MISSION WORK AS HOME TOPIC

Canadian Press

Montreal, Feb. 20.—Mission education should begin in the home, Mrs. G. E. Forbes, Toronto, president of the Dominion Board, Women's Missionary Society, United Church of Canada, told members of the society here yesterday as the Montreal branch opened its tenth annual meeting.

Missions should be discussed in the home so that husbands, brothers, sisters and children would be aware of importance and scope of mission work both in the home and foreign fields, Mrs. Forbes said.

WE DRIVERS

A Series of Brief Discussions on Driving, Dedicated to the Safety, Comfort and Pleasure of the Motorist Public. Prepared by General Motors

No. 2—NIGHT DRIVING

It is just as true as can be that when people get expert at anything they are apt to begin getting careless about it, and that's what we have to look out for when driving our cars. For instance, we recently heard a group of engineers discussing night driving, and one thing they kept talking about was "over-driving our headlights."

Now that term seems to be a common one with them, but it is new to most of us.

What they mean is that the distance we are apt to let our cars speed beyond the point where we could easily stop within that limited distance. It is true that we naturally tend to go a little slower at night. But if we aren't careful we gradually increase our speed, and that leads to trouble. You see, momentum, the same force that tries to keep us from making turns safely, that cuts all kinds of corners on slippery roads . . . never sleeps! He works on the same old principle night and day. Darkness doesn't bother him, but it hinders us.

Most modern headlights are pretty wonderful lights, but after all they don't give us the distance or clarity of vision that daylight does. So, on considerably shorter notice than in the daytime a vehicle or pedestrian can come out of the darkness. Almost before we know it we have to slow down or stop for someone or something on the road . . . perhaps one of those big lumbering trucks that you barely see till you are right up on them; or a car whose tail-light has gone out . . . an unexpected curve, or what not.

And that's where we meet up with momentum again. You see, stopping isn't the one simple action we always thought it was. The truth is, we are told, that there are really three things we have to do to stop. First, we have to think of stopping. Next, we have to move one foot over on the brake pedal. And then we have to push down on the brake pedal.

Now we might not believe it, but they tell us those first two steps take time. Less than a second, perhaps, but even that instant momentum is carrying us on. In fact, it's only twenty miles an hour the average driver goes two-fifths of a second before he can even start to use the brakes. Then after he does get the brakes to work, it takes him another two-fifths of a second to stop completely, even with the best brakes in the world and with good tires, under favorable road conditions. At least so we are told by the State Board of Public Works of one of the states which has made a very intensive study of drivers and driving conditions, and which prepared the data.

The important thing to realize is that distance needed to stop increases a great deal as we increase our speed.

We just have to remember that when we're moving along in a car, we think by the foot, act by the foot and stop by the foot, and if we aren't careful, it's easy to get going faster than is really safe.

Now, just as engineers have told us how to operate in safety with our own lights, many experienced drivers have pointed out how to avoid trouble from other people's lights. They say that all we have to do, when passing other cars at night, is to stop looking at their lights and watch the right-hand side of the road.

The truth of the matter is that night driving can be just as pleasant and just as safe as day driving. But we have to be more alert and more careful.

Building Doubles Rate Year Ago

New York, Feb. 20.—The decline in the first month of 1936 was in accord with the usual seasonal movement for this period. The permit volume for the 214 cities outside of New York City the total was $40,932,813, a decrease of 16.3 per cent as compared with the December value of $48,781,834, but an increase of 9.4 per cent over the $21,019,605 figure for the corresponding month of 1935.

Building Permits In B.C. Higher

Canadian Press Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Building permits issued by fifty-eight cities during January were valued at $1,263,715, an increase of 49.4 per cent, compared with $882,975 in January, 1935, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday. The index of wholesale prices of building materials, on the base 1926 equals 100, was 62.2 compared with 61.8 in January last year.

Value of building permits issued in January by western provinces with 1935 figures in brackets follow: Manitoba $34,160 ($40,150); Saskatchewan $4,994 ($18,885); Alberta $9,178 ($13,884), and British Columbia $427,751 ($120,144).

ANIMAL EXPERIMENT FAILS

To the Editor—I think it is generally conceded that it is better to teach people how to live than they may avoid disease, rather than how to cure it when it develops. In connection with one of the most dreaded complaints and one in regard to which fear is constantly being instilled, the following quotations may be worth consideration:

(1) Letter by Professor Hastings Gilliland in British Medical Journal, February 14, 1935. "The report of the Director of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund conveys the impression that most of the work of our advance in knowledge of cancer during this century is the result of the modern research movement, whereas facts seem to point to the conclusion that, however rich in promises experimental research may be, it is poor in performance."

Letters will not be re-written for publication. If they are not legible no attempt will be made to read them.

Letters not used will not be returned to the writers.

Letters containing offensive personal reflections will not be printed.

These rules, which henceforth will be carried out absolutely, are designed as much for the protection of our patient readers as for that of The Times.

CAUTION!

The Times will not assume responsibility for the return to the writers of articles sent for publication in the Correspondence Column or anywhere else in this newspaper, whether they are published or not, unless they have been specially solicited.

We are sorry to think that so many able research workers are being tricked into believing that the cause and cure of cancer will be discovered by animal experiment.

We believe that there is no one and only cause of this terrible disease.

Our duty, therefore, is to spend our time and energy in discovering how to prevent it.

It is futile to go on with expensive research conducted on such lines."

(2) Leading article in Medical Times, March, 1934, and January, 1936. "Will any unbiased medical man say that we are one step forward in solving the cancer problem? Thousands of pounds have been spent on animal experiments in this department of research, but with no practical result . . . It is futile to go on with expensive research conducted on such lines."

Letters will not be re-written for publication. If they are not legible no attempt will be made to read them.

Dominoes Immune From Possible Olympic Nationality Ban

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Dominion Champs Not Affected By New Controversy

Axel Kinnear Only Man on Capital Squad Who Has Played on U.S. Team

Comment Aroused By Hardwick Statement

ON HIS Maryland farm, Walter Johnson, former speedball king of big-league baseball, is practicing throwing a silver dollar at his barn door. He is trying to get in shape for an exhibition he is scheduled to give on Saturday, the 20th anniversary of George Washington's birthday. His stunt is an attempt to throw the cartwheel across the Rappahannock River, afeat supposed to have been accomplished by Washington.

Representative Sol Bloom of New York, a director of the George Washington Centennial Commission, is offering to bet twenty to one Johnson will not make the pitch. "It is a physical impossibility," Bloom declared.

But just the same, it is safe to predict there will be an optimistic crowd waiting on the other side of the river ready to snaffle the simoleon if it comes across.

From current indications it appears rivals of the United States in Olympic sprints and jumps this summer will face an exceptionally dark outlook. A squad of dusky-skinned gentrity are regarded at present as outstanding bets to wear the Stars and Stripes at the Berlin summer meet. And there is more than a fair chance the sprint relay may be entirely colored.

Commentators point to Jessie Owens, Ohio State's timber-topping sprinter and broad-jumping marvel; Elsie Ecock, U.S. 100 metre champion; and a broad-jumper of more than some merit; lanky Ralph McCall of 1932 Olympic fame, and Ben Johnson, a Columbia negro, as the chief reasons for that belief. Then there is another dark boy, Albert Threadgill of Temple University, who won the Millrose Games high jump with a mark of six feet six inches, and Cornelius Johnson, another dusky leaper who may also make the squad.

Out to avert the near-tragedy which occurred in Art Chapman's free-shot endeavors in previous play-off series, Victoria's Dominoes have gone into an intensive foul-shot practice system. At each workout the boys pot twenty-five shots apiece at the hoop. Art has raised his free-shot conversion average from its low to approximately 60 per cent in games this year, according to Dave Nicol, who looks after the boys. In the practices, Chuck Chapman ranks first in conversions with an average of twenty-one out of twenty-five. Ollie Goldsmith is right behind him and the others are grouped in the seventeen and eighteen out of twenty-five class.

There must be a lot of boxing gloves hanging on walls in various parts of Victoria. Late last year the amateur fight game was quite active with Tommy Drysdale furnishing most of the impetus. But since the Braddock fight things have been singularly quiet in the squared circle. It was understood the promoters in the amateur lists were dropping money rather regularly on the game and it appears the financing system has entirely dried up at present.

The Y.M.C.A. made a gallant effort to introduce boxing into its curriculum, but it did not take. The flurries of interest in the game lasted just long enough to rocket rangy Muza Patrick into national prominence.

Following the Women's World Games in London last year wild reports were circulated by Canadian officials and competitors to the effect that some of the European women competitors "shaved" before they appeared on the track and still were blue with incipient beards. The statement generally got the merry "ha-ha."

However, in a recent press clipping service issued by Reuters, the following item appeared:

"Mr. Zdenek Koubek, once famous as Miss Zdenka Koubekova, the Czechoslovak woman athlete, has decided to return all the cups and trophies which he won as a woman, it is stated."

He says that when his change of sex is officially confirmed a move will be made to annul the records he set up. These include a world record time for the 800 metres."

Brown Bomber Catching Up on Chicken Eating Before Next Training Grind

Detroit, Feb. 20.—Joe Louis is getting fat and likes it. The young negro heavyweight, here to visit his mother and attend an amateur boxing tournament, said yesterday he is enjoying his vacation from the ring by "just catching up on my chicken eating."

"I'm six or seven pounds over my fighting weight right now," Louis said. "I want to be about 215 pounds when I start training April 15 for my fight some time next June with Max Schmeling."

BALL PLAYERS SLOW TO SIGN

Lot of Wrangling Between Men and Bosses as Training Starts

Associated Press

New York, Feb. 20.—With the baseball caravans either heading for the grapefruit belt or forming on the left, ready for the take-off, a roll-call today disclosed at least sixty-two players have not yet signed 1936 contracts.

This represents only about 12 per cent of the athletes on current major league rosters, but it also indicates there has been much more nagging than usual with the bosses who sign the pay cheques.

Loudest, if not the most serious of the holdout "squawks" has emanated from Jerome Herman Dean, who has, in this respect, assumed the amputee once worn by George Herman Ruth. Both Deans are holdouts on the Cardinal list, which also includes Pepper Martin, but Dizney demands for $40,000, which would make him the top-salaried player in either big league, involves the juiciest controversy.

HARDWICK'S STAND

Vancouver, Feb. 20.—Complaints that Canadian basketball teams have been importing United States players to better their chances of representing Canada at the Olympic Games has caused the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association to reserve the right to name the Canadian representative. It was announced yesterday evening by Walter Hardwick, western vice-president of the association.

A statement of a year ago by the association stated definitely that the 1936 Canadian champions would be named to represent Canada at the Olympics, but the possibility of the winning Canadian team containing United States citizens has forced the association to amend the statement he said. If, however, the Canadian championship team was found devoid of United States players, they would be called upon to go to Germany.

Hardwick also announced that arrangements are now under way to hold a general meeting of the association in Winnipeg in August of this year, the first such meeting since 1929.

Definite dates for the meeting would be announced later if arrangements are completed, he said.

THREE GAMES ON N.H.L. CARD

Managers Getting Play-off Jitters as Injuries and Sickness Strike

Associated Press

Anxiety furrows the brows of at least a couple of National Hockey League club managers as play-offs approach. Sickness and injuries seem to invade dressing rooms about this time of year, and managers and trainers get the jitters trying to iron out physical infirmities before the curtain call for the play-offs.

Detroit's Red Wings arrived in Montreal for their game against Maroons, Canadian section topbans, tonight considerably weakened by the loss of Larry Aurie and Herb Lewis, high-powered forward line stars.

Wings were in a soft spot stacking up against Maroons here, though Chicago Hawks, four points behind the Detroit, faced a tough assignment, too, tonight against Detroit in New York.

Idle since they won from Detroit in overtime at Toronto Saturday, Toronto Leaf will meet Canadians in Toronto tonight. Four points instead of two will go to the winner, or two each for a tied game, because last month's game postponed out of respect for the death of King George.

Harvey "Busher" Jackson aggravated a back injury in practice this week and is not expected to be on the ice tonight. "Happy" Day was reported ill with a "heavy cold."

STANFORD HOOPSTERS WIN

Palo Alto, Calif., Feb. 20.—Stanford's lanky basketball players showed winning form yesterday evening as they rolled up a 45 to 36 victory over the University of San Francisco with a strong second-half offensive.

PROVINCE BEAT ADANACS AGAIN

New Westminster, Feb. 20.—Province basketers came through for a 42 to 38 bruising victory over New Westminster Adanacs in the second game of the Inter-city League play-offs here yesterday evening.

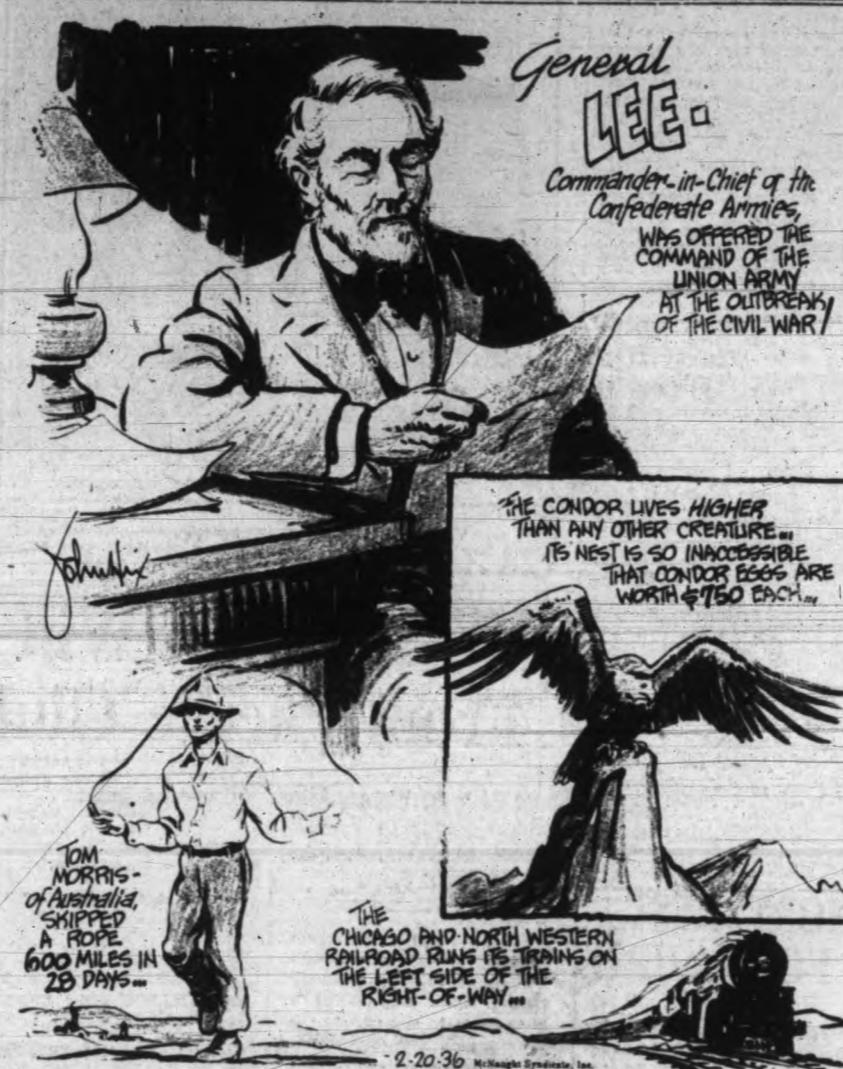

Province took the first game Feb. 8, 37 to 34, and now need but one more win to earn the right to progress towards the provincial crown.

Play was rough but fairly even in the first half, the score being tied, 16 to 16, at the breather. The second half provided more roughness, but Province, led by John Purves and Arnie Bumstead, eased away to their win.

Purves and Bumstead each scored sixteen points for the visiting squad, while Wally Mayers, with thirteen points, shone for the Adanacs.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

Strange as it seems, General Robert E. Lee was offered the command of both the great American armies that opposed each other in the Civil War.

When it appeared that actual war would soon break out between the North and the South, President Lincoln, through a spokesman, offered Lee command of the armies of the North. Lee declined.

"Though opposed to secession and deprecating war, I could take no part in an invasion of the Southern States," he explained.

At that time Lee did not know that he would lead the Southern armies.

He served as one of five Southern generals until, in 1865, he was made commander-in-chief.

The California condor, a bird rare enough to be protected by stringent game laws, builds its nest high on cliffs above the homes of any other bird of animal. It nests in places so remote that condor eggs are very rare and worth $750.

The margin of profit is very small, however, for six months in jail and a $500 fine awaits anyone who even disturbs a condor's nest.

Durante Proves He Is Terrible

III With 'Flu in New York Hospital, Jimmy Side-tracks Staff in Betting on Ponies and They All Lose

Canadian Press

New York, Feb. 20.—They are going to raise Jimmy Durante out of the Midtown Hospital Saturday, no matter what his influenza does to his temperature.

The doctor might be willing to let him stay, but the engineers in the boiler room will have nothing of him.

Jimmy said yesterday, "I'm considerably improved."

"The engineer comes up to see me, see? He's heard my illimitable stuff, and he knows I'm colossal. And he wants to see me.

"And this guy's got a green sheet in his pocket. You know, he's playing the horses, and he's got three dogs marked that he's going to bet on. I take a look at the pigs he's checked off—and they're no good. They's abdominal, simply abdominal. I spot the plug that's got a race sewed up.

ALL ON NAC

"So I mark this horse, and the engineer goes back to the horse and the next day he comes in. He's put all his money on this nag of mine, the sure thing. And when he comes in he says to me: 'The great Durante, colossus!' And then I find out that he ain't bet on his horse, so all of 'em win, and he bets on my dog, and something happens and he don't win. And he's told all the nurses and all the interns, and they know Durante is good, so they bet, too. And I'm wrong because I got that influential and running a temperature, so they're all against me.

"They'd put me out before, but I've paid my rent to Saturday."

Victoria Basketball Squads Draw Closer To Island Titles

Mid-Island Teams Eliminated From Series By Locals

West Saanich Mercantiles, St. Louis College and Cardinals Advance

GREEN LANTERN IN GOOD FIGHT

West Saanich Mercantiles, senior B hoop champions in Victoria and district, moved another notch closer to their objective, the Vancouver Island championship, yesterday evening when they downed the visiting Duncan Union 76 squad, 48 to 38, in the semi-final tussle for the lower island title and secured a 108 to 70 majority in the two-game total-point series. The game featured three play-off tussles at the High School gym.

The opening game at St. Louis College, locals' local intermediate B league squad, drop a 27 to 26 verdict after a hectic battle with the Chemainus Green Lantern squad, in the final encounter for the lower island play-downs. The locals, however, took the championship, having come out on top in the two-game total-point series, 70 to 59.

Playing impressive ball, Jack Taylor's Cardinals stormed their way through the Duncan Elks, 64 to 16, in the final of a two-game series for the lower island play-downs. Having secured a 48 to 10 win in a previous game they took the series, 110 to 25.

DEFENSIVE GAME

The initial canto of the Mercantiles-Union tilt saw both teams using defensive tactics and keeping close to one another in the scoring line. Duncan was on the tail end of a 22 to 20 score at the interval. Pressing rather heavily at the resumption of play West Saanich outscored the visitors seven points to two. Rallying to the call of their leader, Duncan gradually cut down their deficits and were trailing West Saanich again by one point at the ten-minute mark in the second half. The Mercantiles managed to squash the sudden onslaught of their opponents and for the rest of the game held the upper hand in scoring.

West Saanich will now contend with Ladysmith in the lower island final. R. Mitchell was high scorer for West Saanich with fifteen points to his credit, while Coller, Duncan, was high man for his team with fourteen.

The locals had a much easier time with the up-islanders in the first game of the series and chalked up a 62 to 32 score. In yesterday evening's game, however, the opposition was better and Duncan managed to keep fairly close to the Saanich quintet.

Leading the locals at the half-time mark and then just managing to keep the upper hand during the last canto, the Chemainus Green Lantern boys nosed out St. Louis College, 27 to 26.

CLOSE BATTLE

A number of exciting moments featured this tussle when the score near the end became close and play exceptionally fast.

St. Louis College will meet Nanaimo Tuesday 26, in the first game of a at the High School gym here Feb. home-and-home series for the island championship.

Cards had little trouble with the Duncan Elks in their two-game series and are now billed to battle the winner of the Alberni-Nanaimo fixture for the island title. The local girls were leading 30 to 4 at the interval. In the second half the visitors did a little better but were far from victory.

"Chuk" Sharpe, Kennett, Duncan and Tommy DeMacedo were the referees.

Semis Reached In Men's Open Golf

Two Victorians and Two Seattle Men Reach Favored Brackets in Empress Winter Tourney

Two Victoria and two Seattle men had their way into the semi-finals of the Empress winter golf tournament men's open play at the Victoria Golf Club's Oak Bay Links yesterday.

Albert "Scotty" Campbell and E. J. Ketcham were the Sound City shot makers who made the grade, while Harold Brynjolfson and Art Christopher represented the Victorians who remained in the fight when that section of the tourney was adjourned yesterday.

Campbell hurdles Norm Fell 8 and 7 in a sensational display, and Ketcham downed his fellow townsmen, Ralph Whaley, 1 up to advance. Brynjolfson put out another Seattle player, C. L. Havens, 5 and 4. Christopher took the measure of Irving McDermott, 6 and 5.

In the women's section, Mrs. A. S. G. Musgrave, medalist, continued on her way in the handicap with a 4 and 3 victory over Mrs. C. W. Pangman.

NURSES FALL AT OPERATION

Surgeon Almost Overcome
By Fumes in Massachusetts
Hospital; Baby Safely Born

Woburn, Mass., Feb. 20.—Gas felled two nurses, partly overcome a third and rendered the attending physician almost unconscious during the birth of a baby in the operating room of a Woburn hospital yesterday evening.

A nurse flung open the doors of the room and staggered out to tell others that two nurses were unconscious on the floor inside and Dr. Thomas F. Halpin was on the verge of collapse.

The fresh blast of air from the open door helped revive Dr. Halpin.
Another doctor hurried to his aid, but before the second physician arrived, Dr. Halpin had struggled through the doorway. Neither mother nor child apparently suffered any lasting ill effects.

Dr. Halpin, still ill today after his experience, said he believed the room had been filled with carbon monoxide gas, but ventured no opinion as to its origin. He said the operating room had been closed and that engineers would study the room and its equipment to discover the source of the fumes.

"I first became aware of a severe headache," Dr. Halpin said, "and I could not breathe because of a sharp pain in the chest."

"I turned to one of the nurses.
I was going to ask her to get me a chair. As I was trying to speak to her she fell to the floor."

"Just then the nurse on the other side of the operating table collapsed."

"The third nurse staggered out of the room. She was near collapse herself. She pushed open the large doors into the operating room. There was a blast of fresh air. It fell

"I was partly overcome. She got more help and more nurses came,
and they sent for another doctor.
And then I completed the delivery."

Railroads In Van Of Closing Rally On Wall St. List

TODAY'S EXCHANGE

Associated Press
New York, Feb. 20.—Railroads came to the front in a final rally in the stock market today which sent prices in many parts of the list to levels topping any in the last five years.

The ticker tape lagged behind floor transactions as the volume mounted to 3,500,000 shares.

The closing tone was strong. Rail and motor led previous successive rallies that were short lived, but the list as a whole remained firm when activity subsided.

The greatest volume of trading and best rallies appeared in motors, rails and utilities. In the later group there were only isolated weak spots. Shares of alcohol companies also were favored.

Advances in carriers were broad and included Union Pacific, up more than 5 points; Northern Pacific, New York Central, Great Northern preferred and Santa Fe.

General Motors, Chrysler, Studebaker and Nash were around a point higher, as were U.S. Steel, American Telephone, Internationals Telephone Consolidated Gas and North American. Corn product was up around 4 on good Wall Street earnings estimates.

Bonds were marked by strength in U.S. governments with buying reported for the account of insurance companies and out of town banks.

Grains were mixed, cotton lower and foreign exchange steady.

(By H. A. Humber Ltd.) Dow Jones averages closed today as follows:

Thirty industrial—154.43, up 1.34.

Twenty rails—51.27, up 1.64.

Twenty utilities—32.29, up 0.80.

The range of to-day's Dow Jones averages was as follows:

INDUSTRIALS—11.00—133.26, up 0.17.

12.00—133.39, up 0.30.

1.00—133.67, up 0.58.

2.00—134.12, up 1.93.

RAILS—11.00—99.92, up 0.30.

12.00—50.11, up 0.16.

1.00—50.49, up 0.26.

2.00—50.58, up 0.55.

UTILITIES—11.00—51.53, up 0.01.

12.00—51.81, up 0.32.

1.00—32.26, up 0.71.

2.00—32.27, up 0.78.

MINE SHARES RULE LOWER

Canadian Press

Toronto, Feb. 20.—The advance in the mining share market appeared bogged down today with trading outside the penny group slower than usual and prices barely firm. Net losses were slightly in the majority at the close.

None chalked up a gain of 1/2 to 5/8. Buffalo-Ankerite, Canadian Maritime, Macassa, Pickle Crow and McKenzie were heaviest traders with early losses erased before the close. San Antonio lost a few cents and God's Lake at 1.28 was down slightly.

Falconbridge was up about 28 cents.

Sherritt, Ventures and Waite-Amulex showed some improvement. Eldorado was a little stronger.

Calgary and Edmonton registered a minor gain in the oils on fair volume while Texas-Canadian lost more ground, working back to 3.75. Olga was actively sold for a fractional gain.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Virtually the same problems come up in every marriage. Ninety-nine husbands and wives quarrel over the same things. Why do not parents, who know this, teach their children where these sunken rocks in the matrimonial sea are, and show them how to avoid them? I think that all fathers and mothers should educate their children in marriage and teach them how to get along with their mates, and how to treat certain traits in a husband or wife. After all, marriage is the most important thing in life, and it is certainly the parents' duty to prepare their children for as far as they can.

A READER.

Answer: I thoroughly agree with you and I have often wondered why fathers and mothers did not pass along to their children some of the knowledge they have gained through experience of how to live in peace with those to whom they are married, but they never seem to do so. If they know the answers to how to manage a husband or wife, they do not tell them to their children, but leave it to them to work out their own salvation in bitterness and tears.

Yet there is so much valuable information that any mother could give her son how to avoid the friction with his bride that tears romance to tatters and leaves them both disillusioned with marriage.

She might tell him, for instance, that as long as a husband keeps up the love-making he keeps his wife eating out of his hand. Soft talk to a woman is a substitute for fine houses, cars, pretty clothes, amusements. A woman will be perfectly satisfied to wear her last year's dress if her husband tells her how beautiful she is in it, and she would rather stay at home and listen to him make love to her than go to the most exciting play in the world. You never heard of a disgruntled wife whose husband paid her compliments and jolted her along.

She might tell her son that nearly all domestic quarrels begin over money, and that the way to avoid these is to give the wife a definite allowance for the house and for herself. Also, this is the best way to keep a wife from being extravagant. Women crave financial independence just as much as men do, and the wife who has to go to her husband begging for every penny of the money she earns by her work in the home hates him for his injustice and despises him for his stinginess.

She might tell her son that the way to avoid family spats that wreck the peace of a home and are first aid to divorce is not to argue. Any man who has been married to a woman a month knows just what her little pet peeves and prejudices are, and what subjects to her are like pins and needles. The less they are combated, the milder they will be. It takes two to hold a debate, and if there is no opposition wife is just bound to outwit our when she starts something.

If she is touchy about her own family, refrain from criticizing them. If she likes creamed spinach, in the name of peace let her eat it. If she differs in politics and religion from her husband, let her follow her own convictions. The less they are combated, the milder they will be. It takes two to hold a debate, and if there is no opposition wife is just bound to outwit our when she starts something.

And Mother might tell son that the way to manage a woman is with the salve-sprender and not the hammer. Praise her thrift and she will become a penniless-pusher. Laud her amiability, and she will have to live up to her reputation as an angel. boast of her house-keeping and she will make a burnt offering of herself on the kitchen stove. But if husband continually finds fault with everything his wife does she will say: "What's the use?" and give up trying to please him.

And Father might say to his daughter: Be a little reasonable in dealing with your husband and do not expect him to be in real life the romantic hero of your girlish dreams. He might tell her that few men enjoy courtship or are great lovers by nature, and that because a husband has ceased telling her of the state of his affections is no sign that he does not love her any more. It is just that he has got back to normalcy and accepted her as one of the good things in his life.

He might tell her that men get enough fighting in the outside world and that they long above everything else for peace at home and a good-natured wife who is easy to get along with. He might tell her that when a man comes home glum and grouchy the way to handle the situation is not to burst into tears, but to hurry up the dinner, and when he is fed and rested he will be so mild a child can handle him.

He might tell her that there is always a psychological time to tell bad news or ask for money. And he might tell her that the more liberty a wife gives her husband the less he takes, and that husbands like their wives to manage them, provided they do it artistically.

Or, there are lots of things parents could tell their children about how to be happy though married if they would only do so.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am twenty-six. Have been married and divorced, and now I am going to be married again. But I have never been in love. I have never had a heart-throb. The husband I divorced and I had not a thing in common. The young man I am going to marry and I have everything in common. If he is hungry, I'm hungry. If he is tired, I'm tired. If I feel like playing, he wants to play. But if he went out of my life tomorrow, I would miss him, but I don't think it would really hurt. I can be very happy as I am now, so I don't know whether to marry or not. Are there women who never really love, never really thrill about any one?

K. D. H.

Answer: I think there are plenty of unemotional, unromantic, practical people who never experience any of the sensations poets and novelists have taught us to believe are the signs of love. It simply isn't in their natures to palpitate, or turn hot and cold at the sound of a footstep they have heard a thousand times. They don't thrill at the touch of a hand, or pine away with a green-and-yellow melancholy if they are parted even for a day from some particular individual.

Whether people who take their love hysterically really love more than those who take it seriously, no one can say. Often the violence of a passion seems to wear it out. At any rate, we have all seen widows throw themselves on their husbands' graves in an abandon of grief and assert their intention of dying in order to be with them, who were as gay as larks in a few months and married somebody else.

Hence, I presume you must love according to your temperament, and because you are not afflicted with hectic chills and thrills is no sign that you have not a deep and abiding affection for your fiance. Anyhow, thorough congeniality is the real basis of every happy marriage. It will last long after romance has gone.

Hippy's Honey
Uncle Wiggily And

By HOWARD R. GARIN

Uncle Wiggly had a little rabbit boy named Hippy, so the whole name, as you can see, was Hippy Hippy. The little rabbit boy got that name because he was always going hippity hop, or something.

Hippy was raised in a long narrow hole, a short rabbit hole to be called Hippy. The little rabbit boy, named Hippy, was very fond of the things he best liked to eat was honey, the juice of the flowers.

Uncle Wiggly would get the honey from the bees, bring it to the cabin, and Mrs. Longears would spread it on the cakes.

"All of a sudden, I am sorry to have to tell you, Hippy began crying. Often when he was hungry he would cry. A few rabbit children do that. Oh, how he cried."

"Take honey to bed with him, Mommie," said Hippy, who talked a little like Baby Bunt. "Take honey to bed with me."

More A BITE MORE

"Not said his mother. "Indeed not! Up to this point, I have been very patient. All of a sudden, I am sorry to have to tell you. Hippy began crying. Often when he was hungry he would cry. But as Hippy was raised in a long narrow hole, a short rabbit hole to be called Hippy, the little rabbit boy, named Hippy, was very fond of the things he best liked to eat was honey, the juice of the flowers."

One day when there was a plate of hollow stump bungalow and all the little rabbit children were eating, Hippy was the most. At least he ate more of them than the others.

"Hippy got his honey," laughed the little fellow as he snuggled down between the two rabbits. "He was very fond of honey, the juice of the flowers, and when he was hungry he would cry. Hippy began to cry. "Sumpin's a master!" he cried.

And indeed there was. Hippy had eaten his honey all over the sheets and pinned it on his clothes. He was wound up and twisted and stuck when he was hungry. He got his hands on his feet loose. It took a good many and Mrs. Jane a long time to untick him. But after that Hippy did not take any honey to bed with him. Uncle Wiggly laughed. And if the door knob was turned, he would not go to sleep. The keyhole I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly in a hand."
